Introduction

The purpose of this Guide to Construction and Demolition Waste Recycling and Disposal in the Triangle is to provide businesses in the Triangle with a list of alternative means of handling scrap material from construction and demolition work. The expense of construction and demolition can often be lowered by handling scrap material through a method other than putting it all in one dumpster and disposing of it in a municipal solid waste landfill. Separating certain scrap materials on site can produce cost savings through marketing them or through disposing of them in landfills with lower tip fees (i.e., LCID landfills, C&D landfills, etc.).

The cheapest means of dealing with waste is to take care not to produce it in the first place. Although waste reduction methods are critical to any construction project, they are unfortunately beyond the scope of this document. (For more information on this topic, see Managing Construction and Demolition Debris: A Guide for Builders, Developers, and Contractors, available from Rhonda Sherman at the N.C. Cooperative Extension Service, phone 919/515-6770.)

This Guide is organized by type of material to be disposed of or recycled. Materials listed are those for which markets or disposal options are currently available. It is expected that markets will soon develop for other materials, such as gypsum wallboard scrap, asphalt shingles, and plastic buckets; however, these materials did not have a market in the Triangle area as of the summer of 1994.

Within each category of material, entries in the Guide are organized alphabetically, first by entries that recycle or reuse the material, then by entries that merely dispose of the material. Each entry is coded with a letter to indicate what types of services are offered: R = recycling or reuse; D = disposal; H = hauling. This Guide does not attempt to list all haulers in the Triangle; it merely indicates which recycling, reuse, or disposal services also offer hauling.

Other abbreviations used in the Guide: LCID = land clearing and inert debris; MSW = municipal solid waste; C&D = construction and demolition.

Note that the information and listings in this Guide do not necessarily imply endorsement by Triangle J Council of Governments or any other entity represented on the Triangle J Council of Governments' Construction and Demolition Waste Task Force. Every effort was made to provide a complete and accurate listing of resources; however, some information may have changed, or new resources may have become available since publication. For accurate, up-to-date prices, call the contact person for each listing.

If you would like to be informed of updates on Guide listings, please fill out and return the form at the end of the Guide.

POLICY MEMORANDUM #16 - Revised

TO: All Interested Parties

FROM: Dexter R. Matthews, Section Chief

SUBJECT: Management of Construction, Demolition, Land Clearing, Inert, and Yard Trash Debris

It is the intent of this revised memo to clarify the Solid Waste Section's Policy regarding the proper management of that portion of the solid waste stream referred to as "construction/demolition" debris. The long term objective is to manage these waste types in accordance with the goals and policies of the Solid Waste Management Act of 1989 (The Act).

The Act established a policy for promoting methods of solid waste management that are alternatives to disposal in landfills. A hierarchy of management methods was established with source reduction, recycling and reuse, and composting preferable to incineration or disposal. The Act further required that, as a part of a comprehensive recycling program to be initiated by July 1, 1991, construction/demolition debris be separated from the waste stream and segregated in separate locations at a solid waste management facility or other permitted site.

In furtherance of that goal, the waste stream was differentiated into four distinct categories to encourage recycling and reuse: construction and demolition, land-clearing, inert, and yard trash debris.

The Act defines Yard Trash as solid waste consisting of vegetative matter resulting from landscaping maintenance, such as leaves, grass, limbs, trimmings etc.

Land-clearing debris is defined as solid waste which is generated solely from land-clearing activities, such as stumps, trees, etc.

Inert debris is defined as solid waste which consists solely of material that is virtually inert, such as brick, concrete, rock and clean soil.

Construction or Demolition debris is defined as solid waste resulting solely from construction, remodeling, repair or demolition operations on pavement, buildings, or other structures, but does not include inert, land-clearing or yard trash debris.

In accordance with the goals and policies of the Solid Waste Management Act of 1989, the Solid Waste Section has established the following HIERARCHY FOR MANAGEMENT of these wastes:

RECYCLING AND REUSE

Yard Trash and Land-clearing debris defined as yard waste in the recently adopted Solid Waste Management Rules should be managed in accordance with Section .0900 of those rules. Source reduction methods and recycling and reuse of these wastes as mulch or compost are the preferred methods of management. In furtherance of the management hierarchy, the Act prohibited the disposal of yard trash in sanitary landfills after January 1, 1993. Please refer to Policy Memorandum #14, revised, and Clarification - Yard Trash Ban for specific management guidance.

Inert Debris should be recycled and reused as "clean fill" material or for other beneficial reuse as approved by the Section. A solid waste permit is not required if the fill activity meets the requirements of the Solid Waste Management Rules, 15A NCAC 13B .0562.

Beneficial fill activity is not exempt from other local, state or federal regulations including, but not limited to, zoning restriction, flood plain regulations, wetland restrictions or sedimentation/erosion control regulations.

In addition, House Bill 1131, ratified July 3, 1991, allows the use of used asphalt or used asphalt mixed with dirt, sand, gravel, rock, and concrete as fill material.

Land-clearing debris consisting of vegetative matter such as limbs, stumps, etc. is not allowed as a beneficial fill material due to subsidence/settling problems and potential methane gas generation associated with decomposition.

Construction or Demolition Debris shall be separated into recyclable and non-recyclable materials and those materials which can not be reused should be disposed of within a Construction and Demolition landfill or Municipal Solid Waste landfill.

INCINERATION

If recycling and reuse is not economically feasible, these waste types may be incinerated. Incineration must be conducted in accordance with all pertinent local, state, and federal regulations and under the conditions specified in the incinerator permit.

DISPOSAL

Landfill Disposal shall be considered the least preferable method of management of these waste types.

Land Clearing and Inert Debris Landfills

Rules addressing Land Clearing and Inert Debris (LCID) landfills have been adopted addressing disposal of land clearing waste, yard trash, and inert debris. These Rules became effective January 4, 1993, and are contained in the North Carolina Solid Waste Management Rules, 15A NCAC 13B .0560.

In conformance with North Carolina General Statute §130A-309.09B(a)(1), used asphalt or used asphalt mixed with dirt, sand, gravel, rock, and concrete may also be disposed of in LCID landfills, effective till July 1, 1993. *

Construction and Demolition Landfills

A landfill operated for disposal of construction or demolition debris must meet the permit requirements outlined in Sections .0503 and .0504 of the Solid Waste Management Rules with the following exceptions:

- (a) Location distances from airport runways do not apply since this waste type is not putrescible.
- (b) Present policy does not require a liner-leachate collection system for these waste types.

A separate location within a permitted Municipal Sanitary Landfill (excluding buffer area) which meets these requirements, will be approved for disposal of construction/demolition debris through an amendment to permit.

* This sunset provision was subsequently repealed.

If a separate area is not available, those materials which were separated from the waste stream but which can not be recycled shall, upon written request, be approved for co-disposal within a sanitary landfill.

In summary, the Section's policy is to promote the segregation and separation of various portions of the waste stream to allow reuse and recycling. The disposal requirements and associated costs should provide incentive for the separation of recyclable materials during construction and more effective salvage operations prior to demolition.

Local governments are encouraged to support this policy of effectively managing this portion of the solid waste stream by:

- (1) Promoting source reduction, recycling and reuse and composting
- (2) Providing adequate disposal capacity for non-recyclables and
- (3) Taking enforcement action against non-conforming disposal sites.

Architects, contractors and any persons contracting such construction or demolition activities should include in the contract the cost to reuse recyclable materials and properly dispose of non-recyclable materials.
